Dear Wood Bioenergy Industry Professional,

We are pleased to announce that the seventh Wood Bioenergy Conference & Expo will be held Tuesday-Wednesday, March 29-30, 2022, and once again in the Grand Ballroom North of the Omni Hotel at CNN Center in Atlanta, Georgia, USA.

Wood Bioenergy Conference & Expo again immediately precedes the Panel & Engineered Lumber International Conference & Expo (PELICE), which will be held Thursday-Friday, March 31 to April 1, 2022, also in the Grand Ballroom North. Both events are supported by Wood Bioenergy and Panel World magazines, and Georgia Research Institute. Many exhibitors and attendees participate in both events.

The 2020 Wood Bioenergy Conference & Expo was certainly one to remember, as the pandemic had just reared its ugly head and no one could begin to fathom the devastation it would cause in the coming year. The 2020 Wood Bio Conference was probably among the last in-person conferences in any industry to be held in 2020.

Given the amazing development and implementation of vaccines, we’re hopeful and confident that by the 2022 Wood Bio Conference we will have emerged on the other side of the pandemic, the side where things have returned to normal, where conferences are held and presentations are made in-person to a room full of people, when conversations take place face-to-face at an exhibitor booth. We’ve all learned a lot about our capabilities when it comes to doing business remotely, but let’s face it, the wood bioenergy industry thrives on personal interaction. And it’s a lot more fun.

Wood Bioenergy Conference & Expo will once again feature dozens of presentations on new project developments, production technologies, and big picture trends and forecasts, and as usual these discussions will address all segments of the wood-to-energy industry, including industrial wood pellets, biomass power, biofuels, in-woods chipping, and raw material procurement.

It’s no wonder that many exhibitor companies and mill producer companies take advantage of the Wood Bioenergy Conference & Expo venue to hold regional and national meetings.

We look forward to seeing you there, in person.
